Veteran of the Month William Foschi

The Office of Veterans Affairs & Military Programs (VAMP) at UConn is pleased to honor William Foschi (pictured above on the far left with members of the VSO) as UConn's Veteran of the Month. While attending the University of Connecticut, Will has been serving in the Connecticut Army National Guard. He's very involved with the VSO (Veteran Students Organization) at UConn in addition to the Formula SAE Racing Team and UConn Club Wrestling. Will shared that those groups have been the best part about being a student at UConn because it's given him the best opportunities to get to know other students and to further his own growth and development by working with them.

Will is currently serving in D Co., 1-102nd Infantry Regiment (Mountain) in the Connecticut Army National Guard. They are an infantry heavy-weapons company and he'll be deploying with them to the Horn of Africa region in the near future. Will anticipates he'll be on orders in Africa at least into 2022. Most of Will's responsibilities are in the operation of the weapons systems. He's recently been helping teach and train soldiers from their sister rifle companies on the use of heavy weapons systems as well.

Will strongly recommends other militaryaffiliated students, like himself, find clubs or other student organizations they're interested in, to get involved, and try working in a leadership position. He says, "Many of us have already held leadership positions in the military, or at least learned what leaders are supposed to know, be, and do. So, there's really a great opportunity to apply that skill and experience towards developing and guiding groups of other capable students with similar interests to accomplish some great things."

We always welcome nominations for Veteran of the Month. If you would like to nominate a student, faculty, or staff member for "Veteran of the Month," please contact Nikki Eberly at Nikki.eberly@uconn.edu with the name of the person and reasons for your nomination.
